

Belbin Team Role Accreditation

2 day
Course

A Certified Course devised by Meredith Belbin

Who should attend the Belbin Accreditation Course?

All individuals and organisations aiming to understand and apply Belbin team role theory when creating and managing teams.

What does the course cover?

Day 1

- The origin, theory and definition of the nine Belbin team roles
- How to measure team roles through the Interplace software system, which matches behaviour to team roles
- How to generate and understand the key team role reports

Day 2

- Uses to which team roles can be applied, e.g. teambuilding, personal and organisational development, recruitment, training needs and job analysis
- The ranges of individual team and job reports available
- How to interpret and analyse team role reports
- Practical exercises on giving feedback to individuals and teams (using in-house data if appropriate)
- Use of case studies to show how to use the model to improve individual and team effectiveness
- Accreditation Test

On successful completion of this two-day course, participants will have:

- Knowledge and credibility to teach the Belbin model
- The ability to interpret and give feedback on team role reports to individuals and teams
- Full backup and support from Belbin Associates
- A signed certificate from Meredith Belbin on passing the Accreditation Test
- Use of the Belbin Accreditation Logo (subject to terms & conditions)
